

Responding to Refugee Crisis and Disaster
New Approaches in the Humanities and Social Sciences
Symposium

Core Session 2-3 at TGSW 2018: Tsukuba Global Science Week
“Driving Sustainable Development”

Time: Friday, September 21st 10:00 - 17:00 (lunch break 12:00 – 13:30)

Place: Room 402, Tsukuba International Conference Center

Website TGSW: <https://tgsw.tsukuba.ac.jp/> and registration free of charge

(Organizer: Herrad Heselhaus, University of Tsukuba: heselhaus.herrad.fw@u.tsukuba.ac.jp)

10:00-10:10	Herrad Heselhaus	Introduction
10:10-10:45	Magdalena Nowicka Humboldt University Berlin	When Migrants Help Refugees: Perspectives from Migration and Integration Studies
10:45-11:20	Keiko Sakai Chiba University	Searching for Relational Studies on Global Crises in order to Establish a New Paradigm of Social/Human Science for Overcoming Contemporary Global Crises
11:20-11:50	Herrad Heselhaus Tsukuba University	Introducing Relational Studies in Literature: An Example from Syrian Refugee Literature
11:50-12:00	Discussion
12:00-13:30	Lunch Break
13:30-13:40	Herrad Heselhaus	Introduction
13:40-14:15	Franz Mauelshagen Essen/Duisburg University	Environmental Humanities: Global Change and the Human Dimension
14:15-14:45	Abu Moges Tsukuba University	Political Economy of Migration Policy: Perspectives from Africa
14:45-15:15	Andrée Lafontaine Tsukuba University	Reproducing the Future: Fertility in Recent Sci Fi Films
15:15-15:25	Coffee Break
15:25-15:55	Yayoi Haraguchi Ibaraki University	Fukushima Today: The Voiceless and Invisible Victimization
15:55-16:25	Saeko Kimura Tsuda University	Why and How Literature after Fukushima Describes the Suppression of Freedom of Thought
16:25-17:00	Final Discussion	