Wellness and Fairness :Psychology with Social Dimension

Under Chiba University's Leading Research Promotion Program "Chiba Studies on Global Fair Society (New Frontiers of Studies on Fair Society Values and Public Vision in the age after COVID 19)", we will hold an international seminar (online) in the emerging research field "Positive Political Psychology", a new area of research (which has been internationally propounded by Professor Masaya Kobayashi). The first seminar addresses "Wellness and Fairness: Psychology with Social Dimension" as in the title, and an online lecture will be delivered by the internationally renowned scholar, Professor Isaac Prilleltensky (University of Miami, USA) who has been active in the research field of psychology and with social dimension. Professor Prilleltensky is the world-class authority on community psychology and advocates the concept of multidimensional well-being at personal, organizational and community levels. He was also a guest editor of Professor Kobayashi's contributing issue "Psychology for the Common Good: Citizenship, Justice and Well-being" in the journal Frontiers in Psychology. He will give a lecture on "Wellness, Fairness, and Worthiness: Psychosocial Foundations for the Common Good."

Professor Akito Shimizu (Shonan Fujisawa Campus (SFC), Keio University, Japan), who is well-known for his research into "Work Engagement", will serve as a discussant, and we will also invite related comments from the members of this research project.

As this is a valuable opportunity, we are hoping for the active participation of those interested in this important topic.
